HARLAKENDEN HOUSE

The President's Summer Residence is Owned by Cousin of R. C. Hall.

Winston Churchill, the author of "The Inside of the Cup," "Richard Carvel," "The Crisis" and other noted novels, is a native of St. Louis. He is a son of Edwin Spaulding Churchill of Portland, Me., and Emma Bell Blaine of St. Louis. In 1895 Mr. Churchill married Miss Mabel Harlakenden Hall, daughter of George D. Hall of St. Louis, formerly of Bedford. Mr. Hall was a brother of Judge William Macley Hall, and an uncle of Richard Cecil Hall, of Echo Vale Farm, near Bedford. George D. Hall was a wealthy ironmaster. After his death his estate was appraised at $997,000, three thousand dollars less than a million. In the spring of 1899, after finishing the work on "Richard Carvel," Mr. and Mrs. Churchill went to live at Cornish, N.H., where they had purchased a farm on high ground on the banks of the Connecticut River, just opposite Windsor, Vt. On this picturesque spot Mr. and Mrs. Churchill built Harlakenden House, which is modelled upon one of the mansions of Colonial Maryland, and named in honor of Mrs. Churchill's mother, whose maiden name was Harlakenden. The mansion contains many fine pieces of antique furniture, Colonial plate and china.

Harlakenden House was selected in 1913 by President Wilson as his summer residence. Mrs. Wilson and her three daughters are now sojourning at their summer home, which was opened in May for the honeymoon visit of Mr. and Mrs. McAdoo.

Mrs. Wilson, like many ladies of culture and taste, is very fond of the simple and beautiful furniture and architecture of Colonial days. Harlakenden House is an ideal place for a summer residence, where all is peaceful and serene—a good place for the President to rest.

Millions in Thievery

High finance is on a climb. Unless a sudden check is administered there is no telling where it will end.

And present day high finance is nine-tenths thievery.

The looting of the New Haven road, which has called forth a scathing denunciation from the Interstate Commerce Commission, is but a drop in the bucket of dishonesty—and the bucket is without a lid. And yet the New Haven was plundered of $60,000,000 to $90,000,000.

When governments wink at high finance thieves they deal a body blow at honesty, put a premium upon stealing. And our government for years has allowed these financial crooks to steal and plunder under its very nose.

They steal millions and are immune from punishment, while the poor man who snaked a sack of flour spends his days rotting in jail.

There may be no law under which these pirates may be punished, but Congress has the power to make such laws. But if Congress sits tight, looks wise, talks eloquently and does nothing, then Congress by its supineness and assiduity becomes an accessory to the wholesale plundering of millions of helpless people.

Yes, there are fabulous riches in thievery—and crumbs for the honest man.

Sheep Industry Declining

The report of Secretary of Agriculture shows that 39,000 sheep were killed by dogs this year. The loss to the State will probably reach $50,000 besides the disgust to the farmers in the business of raising sheep. The sheep industry of Pennsylvania has decreased 90% in ten years and farmers blame the decrease on the ravages of the flocks by dogs. When a dog gets into a flock of sheep many are killed, many of the surviving ones are maimed and the remainder are so badly frightened that they do not thrive afterwards.

More Cemetery Contributions

Besides the names of persons previously published, the following have contributed to the Bedford Cemetery fund:

UNION PICNIC

Committees Appointed and Arrangements Being Made for Annual Day.

The general committee, appointed by the several Sunday Schools of Bedford to decide as to having a union picnic this year, met Tuesday evening and it was unanimously decided that for the interest of the several schools and the general good of our town a union picnic ought to be held. Thursday, August 6, was the day selected. The following committees were appointed:

Grounds—D. W. Beam, J. F. Ellis and S. W. Rouzer.

Sports—William Davidson, J. P. Cuppett, S. W. Rouzer, Mrs. J. C. Russell, T. J. Arnold and C. M. Deibaugh.

Transportation—J. P. Cuppett and S. A. Cessna.

Music—S. H. Koontz, Miss L. D. Shuck, T. J. Arnold, J. A. Wright.

Water—C. M. Deibaugh, William Davidson and C. E. Koontz.

Closing of Stores—J. R. Dull, J. F. Murdock and W. A. Weisel.

The chairmen of these committees will meet next Tuesday evening to make report of their work.

This ought to be a general holiday, a gala day, for the business and professional people of Bedford. It should be exclusively Bedford's day off, one day of the year a day for repast, recreation, reflection and association. There is no doubt that to use a day out of a full year of busy days in this way will be a benefaction to the town. Everybody should close up shop and turn out. The country 'round if it feels that a day could be spared should come in and help take the day off in a pleasant, sociable manner. This is not intended to be a Sunday School day, as would be supposed from the source of organization and promulgation, but a public picnic, a union picnic, united in the sense of a community interest to which all may subscribe and assume duties, and responsibilities for its success.

A more detailed outline of the program will be given next week.

BEN GREET PLAYERS

Will Give Performance at Bedford Springs Hotel.

A rare treat is in store for the people of Bedford next Friday, July 31st, when the Ben Greet Woodland Players come here for a single performance of Shakespeare's fanciful master-piece "The Tempest." Arrangements have been made to give the performance on the lawn of the Bedford Springs Hotel, and the local appearance of this famous company of all English actors headed by Ben Greet himself will be under the management of Mr. M. C. Sweeny.

No more beautiful surroundings than the lawn of the Bedford Springs Hotel could be imagined. The graceful overhanging trees for a splendid background for the action of the play and in addition to being handsomely costumed, beautiful electric and calcium light effects will be provided.

The Ben Greet Players is a unique organization devoted to the production of Shakespearean comedies in the open-air. Mr. Ben Greet was the originator of the out-of-door theatre and his plays in the open have been so successful that they have prompted many others to seek fame and fortune through the same source. There has never been any, however, who have approached the high standard set by Mr. Greet and he has always taken pride in keeping his company at the head of the list of those appearing in summer Shakespearean repertoire. This year Mr. Greet has one of the strongest companies with which he has ever surrounded himself.

The play to be presented here is one of the most popular and successful in the entire Greet repertoire, "The Tempest." In it Mr. Greet is seen at his best as Prospero.

Mr. Wm. Smith Goldenburg, Advance Manager for the Greet Players, arrived in Bedford last night and will today complete the arrangements for the appearance of his company next Friday. Preparations are being made to accommodate an unusually large crowd, and reservations for seats should be made immediately to the Bedford Springs Hotel.

Escape From Everett Lock-Up

Three men—Harry Gallagher, William Bishop and Marshall Nycum—escaped on Sunday from the Everett lock-up, where they had been confined the night before, with Wilbert Miller and Joseph Buzzard, on the charge of gambling at the home of Bishop and for the alleged illegal sale of liquor. The men were arrested by Constable Geinger and taken to the lock-up to be held for a hearing Monday evening.

Early Sunday morning they broke the lock on the cell door and made their escape, Miller and Buzzard refusing to join them. Upon learning the prisoners had flown, Everett authorities sent their descriptions broadcast and Sheriff Grant Dodson at once started in pursuit.

After a hard chase through the western section of the county, the Sheriff and Deputy Andrew Dodson succeeded in capturing Gallagher and Bishop. P. R. R. Detective Charles D. Beagle was also on their trail and had traced them to Buffalo Mills when the Sheriffs arrived. The men were taken to Everett and again placed behind the bars. Nycum is still at large.

Lecture on Vice

Rev. Albert H. White delivered three lectures here last week—Sunday morning in the Methodist Episcopal Church to a mixed audience, Sunday afternoon in the Presbyterian Church, to men, exclusively, and Tuesday evening he addressed the ladies of the town. The meetings were well attended, especially the one Tuesday evening, a great deal of interest being shown.

Mr. White lectured against vice. The points he emphasized are these: Clean politics, pure thoughts and clean words and works. He urged parents to educate their children against vice; to unfold to them the story of life, so as to safeguard them against the temptations of life. Mr. White is a strong speaker, full of facts and experience; a bitter enemy of intemperance in all its phases, and a promoter of righteousness.

On Sunday and Tuesday of this week he delivered lectures at Hope-well.

NOTICE TO OPERATORS OF MOTOR-VEHICLES

The recklessness and utter disregard for the law on the part of some of the operators of motor-vehicles and which has resulted in the injury and death of some of our citizens as well as in making the public highways unsafe for those who would use them in the transportation of the products of the farm and factory as well as for their pleasure, have so aroused public opinion that something must be done to correct this evil.

In order that no one can claim "snap judgment," as an offset, should the strong hand of the law fall upon him, we have been requested by several public officials to publish the following extracts from the Act of Assembly of 1913, relating to the regulation of motor-vehicles on the public highways.

Registration and Number Tags

Every motor-vehicle must be registered and display two number tags, one on the front and one on the rear of said vehicle. These number tags must be conspicuously displayed and kept free from dirt, oil or other substance which will impair their legibility and shall not be defaced in any manner; they must be parallel to the axle and the rear tag must be illuminated at night so as to be plainly distinguished.

No person under the age of sixteen years, whether the owner of a motor-vehicle or not, shall operate a motor-vehicle upon the public highways.

Every person, other than the owner of a motor-vehicle, must secure a driver's license to operate a motor-vehicle—a non-paid driver's license is issued without a fee.

Lights

Motor-vehicles shall from one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise, show two white lights, visible at least 200 feet in the direction in which said vehicle is proceeding. Except that motor-cycles need only one light.

Sounding Warning

Every operator must sound his signal device whenever necessary to insure the safety of other users of the highways, and also when approaching a street or road crossing or dangerous curve, where proper signs have been erected bearing the words "Danger, blow your horn."

The unnecessary sounding of signal device and muffler cut out is prohibited.

Speed

No person shall operate a motor-vehicle on the public highways, recklessly or at a greater speed than is reasonable and proper, having regard to the width, traffic and use of the highway, or so as to endanger property, or the life or limb of any person.

No person can lawfully operate a motor-vehicle at a greater rate of speed than twenty-four miles per hour on any highway within the State.

No person can lawfully operate a motor-vehicle faster than a rate of fifteen miles per hour in any built-up or dangerous section of the highways where signs have been erected having thereon the words "Danger, run slow." These signs must be placed one-fourth mile apart in order to confine the speed below twenty-four miles per hour.

Intoxication

Any person operating a motor-vehicle when intoxicated shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars or more than three hundred dollars or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Officers of the Law

All operators shall, on signal from any police officer or constable, stop and exhibit their registration certificate or license and furnish such information in their possession as to the identity of the operator or owner of any motor-vehicle.

Penalties

The penalty for violation of any provision of the Act of Assembly is ten dollars minimum and twenty-five maximum, except as to intoxication and unauthorized use of vehicles which in both cases is as above stated under intoxication.

Telling Stories

Some of the most delightful stories for children are to be found in the Old Testament. The flood story and the filling of the ark, Daniel in the lion's den, David and Goliath—these are only a few of the tales that will make young eyes glisten and young mouths open wide in wonder, but you must make a careful selection, gauging the story well to the age of the listener.

To illustrate, one of the best stories is that of Joseph and his brethren. It is in every way a model hero tale. It introduces the motive of paternal love, jealousy and forgiveness, but it also contains some historically interesting civics and political economy, which would be quite lost upon a child that has gun to be mightily interested in the coat of many colors, and the heartless treatment of the favorite son by the elder brothers.

We heard a parent trying to tell the story to a two-year-old, using such phrases as "sold into captivity" and "there was a famine in the land," and the audience, as bored audiences have a way of doing, refused to listen. Captivity means nothing to a child of two years, and a well fed baby has no conception of what a famine is like.

Only as we try to inform children, do we realize how artificial and inexpressive is the language which we use for conveying thought. Children want everything reduced to its lowest terms. When in disgust, this parent began again and said that the brothers "sold the little boy to some bad men" and that there came a time "when the people were all hungry," the baby began to understand.

Add This Fact to Your Store of Knowledge.

Kidney disease often advances so rapidly that many a person is firmly in its grasp before aware of its progress. Prompt attention should be given the slightest symptom of kidney disorder. If there is a dull pain in the back, headaches, dizzy spells or a tired, worn-out feeling, or if the kidney secretions are offensive, irregular and attended with pain, procure a good kidney remedy at once. Thousands recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the statement below. David Gogley, blacksmith, W. Main St., Everett, Pa., says: "My back often became stiff and lame and the action of my kidneys was irregular. I tried several remedies, but wasn't helped until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. They drove away the trouble and helped my kidneys. I am willing to confirm what I said about Doan's Kidney Pills, when I recommended them some years ago. They cured me of lame back and kidney trouble."

"THEY SAY"—WHAT DO THEY SAY?

Alleged Business Depression is Trailing to Its Source.

*Detroit, Mich., July 21.—A trip up the Western side and down the Eastern side of the State was recently made by a representative of the Detroit News to inquire in many communities regarding business conditions there. There were interrogated country merchants, traveling salesmen, small wholesalers, dairymen, business men from other States who were resting at the North Michigan resorts, and any who in a casual way revealed his knowledge of affairs.

The most striking feature of the whole proceeding was the course which the conversations invariably took.

"How is business up this way?" the questioner would begin.

"Well, I hear it is rather quiet," would be the answer.

"Hear it is quiet?" the questioner would remark, "What do you mean by that?"

"Well, the papers say things are quiet—that's all I know about it."

"So they do—but how is business with you?"

"Oh, my business is all right—I've got no kick coming."

"Do you know anybody who has?"

"No—come to think of it, I don't."

That was the invariable result—"they say business is quiet, but my business is all right."

A coffee salesman of experience says that May of this year was the best month of his whole career, in point of sales, and that the year thus far has been the best year he has ever had in point of collections. Asked what his customers said about business, he replied that everybody said it was quiet, but everybody was ordering goods and paying for them.

A department store merchant in a bustling Northern town said that in his place he had never seen so much cash business done voluntarily. People are not asking credit, and those who formerly had the credit habit now seem to have money.

A real estate man of 20 years' experience, whose business is building houses for workmen and selling them on monthly payments, said that he had more contracts made this year than any other, that initial payments were larger than any year of his experience, and that monthly payments are coming in with a steadiness that is surprising. Yet he says that "they say" business is quiet.

The resort hotel keepers are jubilant at the early opening of the season, in spite of the backward weather.

Conductors on the smaller railway lines of the North say that travel is heavier than they remember it ever to have been, especially considering that so large a part of the travel is done by the residents of the districts thereabouts.

It appears that President Wilson was pretty nearly right when he said that the so-called depression was more psychological than industrial.

Next!

General Huerta, man of blood and iron, has abdicated the usurped presidency of Mexico.

And the world waits for the next chapter in this drama of blood strife and destruction.

Who will be the next "patriot" to despoil his people of the few crumbs left to them?

When will the next revolution break out and drench this stricken land with the little blood that remains?

Some there are who fondly believe that peace is at hand. But the wish is apt to be father to the thought.

Certainly a new government will be set up by the Constitutionalists, and a semblance of peace may prevail for a time. But it will not last, because there will be no restraining hand to give it stability.

There are not offices enough to go round, and it will be but a question of time when some hungry chieftain who has been denied his place at the crib will raise again the standard of revolt and pillage.

LUMBER BUSINESS PICKS UP

West Coast Manufacturers Expect Busy Season.

Portland, Ore., July 20.—The 18-months' calm of the lumber market is at an end, in the opinion of members of the West Coast Lumber Manufacturers' Association. Stocks are low, mills are shipping up to their cut and orders are gaining, assert members in diagnosing the market.

E. W. Demarest of Tacoma announced the Southern Pacific had ordered material for 5,000 cars as one sign of encouragement.

WHY WEAK LUNGS?

The toll of tuberculosis is claiming more than 350 victims every day in the United States, yet few realize their grave condition until the critical period arrives. Overwork, worry, weakness after sickness, catarrh, bronchitis, tender throats—all exert the weakening influence that invites consumption.

To guard against consumption, thousands of people take Scott's Emulsion because its rich medicinal nourishment strengthens the lungs, puts vigor in the blood, and upbuilds strength to resist tuberculosis. Scott's Emulsion is nature's strength-builder. Refuse substitutes.

WOMEN ARE URGED TO WATCH SALOONKEEPERS

Head of State W. C. T. U. Encouraged with Decision of United States Supreme Court.

Pennsylvania W. C. T. U. Bulletin. The Supreme Court of the United States has put into the hands of drunkards' families a most helpful weapon by its decision in the case of Mrs. May Bulger vs. Louis Penica of Nebraska City, Neb.

Mrs. Bulger, the wife of an habitual drunkard, entered suit against Louis Penica because he continued to furnish her husband with drink after due notice had been served upon him. The law of Nebraska holds the saloonkeeper responsible for wrecking the bread winner of the family—one of his steady customers.

In the first instant the wife was given a verdict of $5,000 damages. The case was appealed, but the highest State court affirmed the verdict of the lower court. Then on the plea of "personal liberty," an appeal was carried to the United States Supreme Court, but the appeal was dismissed and the verdict of the lower court sustained. The court viewed personal liberty from another angle—that of wife and children.

The saloonkeeper may sell his liquor but he can be made to pay for its interference with the health, happiness and welfare of those depending upon the victim whom he has knowingly incapacitated. A more vital decision has never been rendered by the court of last resort.

This decision of the United States Supreme Court is a God-send to the families of Pennsylvania's drunkards. It has brought to light an old law on our statute books. As passed and signed in 1875, one statute provides that:

"The husband, wife, parent, child or guardian of any person who has or may hereafter have the habit of drinking intoxicating liquors to excess, may give notice in writing, signed by him or her, to any person not to sell or deliver intoxicating liquor to the person having such habit; if the person so notified, at any time within twelve months after such notice, sells or delivers any such liquor to the person having such habit the persons giving the notice may, in an action of tort, recover of the person notified any sum not less than $50 nor more than $500, as may be assessed by the court of judge, as damages."

By another act, signed April 22, 1903, the rumrunner who furnishes intoxicating drinks to any person "in violation of any existing law" is made responsible "for any injury to person or property, and by any one aggrieved may recover full damages against such person so furnishing, by action on the case, instituted in any court having jurisdiction of such form of action in this Commonwealth."

We urge our women to use this helpful legal weapon.

ELLA M. GEORGE,
State President.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention the Bedford Gazette.—Adv.

A Chicago judge leads the van in inflicting severe punishment upon offenders. The sentence passed upon one culprit was that he "find a wife and get married within one year."

BATHING IN POLLUTED WATERS

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D.

There is a common but erroneous idea that clear water is pure water. Unfortunately this is untrue as many a stream which to all appearances is uncontaminated carries the germs of typhoid and dysentery.

Throughout the summer months thousands of camps dot the streams and woodlands and the seekers after health and pleasure naturally turn to the streams for their water supply and for bathing purposes. Often camps are located close together and if there is careless disposal of the wastes by those up stream they become an active menace to those below.

For the sake of safety be careful in selecting a bathing place. Streams should be avoided which are contaminated by city sewage. Where there is any doubt regarding the character of the water it is better to boil the entire supply used for drinking and culinary purposes and to forego the pleasure of swimming.

On picnics and excursions to the country unused wells and those in barn-yards or near out houses should be avoided. Even springs are not always to be relied upon for they are often contaminated by the drainage from adjacent properties. The alluring road-side spring that looks so tempting to the weary traveler on a hot day is often so located that it receives road drainage and is unfit for use. It is far better to suffer a temporary inconvenience from thirst than to risk a drink from a questionable source.

The general adherence to these suggestions would save much of the typhoid which for years has been an inevitable accompaniment of the vacation season.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulents relieved and strengthened the bowels so that they have been regular ever since."—E. Davis, Grocer, Sulphur Springs, Texas.—Adv.

Lincoln Highway Notes

A book has just been published under the title of, "A Motor Trip Through Canada," which advocates the establishment of a transcontinental highway in Canada similar to the Lincoln Highway in this country. The author, Thomas W. Wilby, recently crossed Canada from Halifax to Vancouver, a distance of 4,200 miles, in his car, the trip lasting 52 days. The Lincoln Highway is but 3,400 miles in length and can be crossed in 30 days or less depending on the car and the driver.

Richland County, O., farmers have organized a Farmers' Lincoln Highway Association, which will be actively interested in bringing about the improvements of the section of Lincoln Highway in Richland County.

A petition is being circulated in Chicago Heights, Ill., to change the name of the old Chicago road to the Lincoln Highway. A majority of those owning property on this road will have to sign the petition before the change can be effected, but no opposition is being encountered.

Two hundred dollars was taken in at a dance given for the benefit of the Lincoln Highway at the Odd Fellows' Hall in Placerville, Cal., recently. This is a new way of raising Lincoln Highway funds.

Contract for Lincoln Highway work in Wayne County, O., will be let some time this month. The sale of bonds for the work took place in May.

An ordinance has been passed in Ada, O., compelling merchants to remove hitching posts and racks of all kinds from the main street, which is the Lincoln Highway. This action is in preparation for the great flow of travel which is expected through Ada when the transcontinental tourists over the Lincoln Highway begin going through next spring.

W. S. Duncan, wife and son, left Los Angeles recently in a Pierce-Arrow, for a trip over the Lincoln Highway to New York City and the New England States. It is likely that there will be as many tourists crossing the country over the great route from west to east this summer as there are from east to west.

Birds Aid Man

That birds contribute to public health is a suggestion made by H. W. Henshaw, chief of the Biological Survey, who has been spending considerable time lately examining the stomach of birds killed for scientific purposes. For instance, in the stomach of a night hawk, Mr. Henshaw found 500 mosquitos, while in the stomach of the average killdeer he found hundreds of larvae of the salt marsh mosquito. The latter insect is held responsible by scientists for carrying germs of such diseases as typhoid, malaria and dengue fever, so that any bird which reduces their numbers, and checks their propagation is contributing to the sanitation of the world.

Vicious and Unpatriotic Organization
Indianapolis, Ind., July 20.—Samuel M. Foster, president of the German-American National Bank of Fort Wayne recently received a "confidential inquiry" from Wilbur F. Wakeman, of the American Protective Tariff League, asking as to his payroll for a certain week this year as compared with the corresponding week last year. "We," wrote Mr. Wakeman, "earnestly ask your cooperation in this inquiry." He did not get much "cooperation," but he did get an answer. Mr. Foster wrote:

"It would be more creditable to your organization if it would use its funds along lines that would tend to decrease any tendency toward business depression that may exist, rather than along lines that have a strong influence toward increasing this tendency. The purpose of your inquiry is so clearly political, and the intent to discredit the present administration and recent legislation so apparent, that this bank declines to have anything to do with it, and feels justified in giving expression to its lack of sympathy with your efforts. It is such movements, by such organizations as yours, that justify the charge that there is being made a systematic and disloyal effort to create a condition of mind in the people of the country that will bring about and intensify a spirit of commercial depression. No more discreditable and dishonorable thing could be attempted by men claiming to be loyal citizens of the republic. As you very well know, to spread broadcast over the country any evidence or argument tending to show the existence of business depression only tends to produce and heighten this depression. That this is your intention and purpose is revealed in your letter, though not explicitly stated."

Possibly Mr. Foster would have been willing to give the desired information had the request come from almost any other organization than the American Protective Tariff League. He naturally did not care to contribute in any way to a campaign conducted by men who have for years been fighting for a tariff subsidy, and who exerted all their influence in behalf of the Payne-Aldrich bill.

It is the American Protective Tariff League that has led the chorus of calamity shouters.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Describes New Harvester

A new harvester cuts, threshes and sacks grain in a single operation. The machine is described in the August Popular Mechanics Magazine. Loading wagons follow it, picking up the sacks of grain ready for shipment. The machine is drawn by two spans of horses hitched at its sides back of the cutting bars. A 40-horse power gasoline engine furnishes energy for threshing and sacking. After the grain is cut it is thrown back upon tables whence it is forced into the thrasher mechanically. The grain is then carried to the sacking device, where the sacks are filled, sewed and dropped.

HECKERMAN LETTER

Chicken Served at Hotel Every Day In Year.

Weston, W. Va., July 20.—Beyond a doubt this little city of six thousand is one of the brightest and best cities in the whole State. The people are wideawake. Yes indeed they are, for their sidewalks, as well as their streets, are graded and paved and look as well or better than Juliana Street at home. The streets of Weston are wide and shade trees adorn the sidewalks. There are two up-to-date hotels here, the Camden Hotel and the Bailey House, commonly called the Chicken House, and why thus named? Why because they serve chicken for dinner three hundred and sixty-five times a year. They not only serve chicken but all else that is good and wholesome for the most fastidious to eat. The water used in this hotel is from a five hundred foot well. This is in the yard, where it is surrounded by flowers of the brightest hues and the most fragrant odors. The clerks are the most accommodating in the profession and do their utmost to make it homelike for each one of their very many guests.

There are four banks, each one offering a certain percentage for the caretaking of your spare change. The churches are numerous and with as many creeds as there are days in the week. One of the State hospitals for the insane is located here. The buildings are each built of stone. The lawns are spacious and on nice days one may see hundreds of insects out on these lawns each being cared for by an attendant. The large maple trees on the lawns afford good protection from the scorching rays of a Southern sun.

The only wholesale grocery is the Gregg Grocery Company. Riley Gregg is the president and general manager of the company which is now five years old and each year their business increases something wonderfully. All brought about by Mr. Gregg's efforts. This man is one among ten thousand as a diplomat in his particular line, but it matters not how busy he is, he always has a social word for his callers. This will lead to his rose farm in front of his splendid wholesale house or his vegetable farm in its rear. A word must surely be brought in about his Alderney cow. Mr. Gregg is the soul of honor and has made a great success of his business. His business for the first day of June, 1914, exceeded the first three days of the same month in 1913, and his cash business for the fifteen days of July, 1914, exceeded the same time last year by fifteen thousand dollars. The financial part of the business of this great Gregg Grocery Company is watched over by a Mr. Smith, one of the staunchest Democrats in all West Virginia.

Weston is a great oil and gas centre and at present there are five hundred men laying a sixteen-inch gas pipe from the big wells out eight miles in the country. The very many teams that are daily hauling these pipes and big pieces of machinery are a wonder. The horses are so broad over their backs that any amateur circus girl could dance on them without a pad. This condition of horse flesh is brought about by the care taken of the same horses and the quality of the grain fed them. This grain is purchased of the Gregg Grocery Company and selected for it by Mr. Gregg, its president. These famous wagoners hitch all the way from two to forty horses to a wagon and I feel that your readers would all have enjoyed a sight of the team last week with forty big and strong horses in it. One sometimes sees eight or ten big fat oxen in a wagon. Very few mules are seen here. This city is twenty-five miles from Clarksburg, W. Va., a much larger city, but one with less snap and vigor, for when they get ahead of Weston those attempting must get up early in the morning. These two cities have lately been connected by a trolley line, which, however, is not in first-class order as yet. The road has not been well surfaced.

Booze is a thing of the past in West Virginia. The oil and gas fivers have broken out again and many hundreds of laborers are at work in the old as well as the new fields.

Yours truly,

M. P. Heckerman.

How to Thin Fruit

All fruit growers are now becoming convinced of the advantages of thinning fruit, but as many of them are but beginners in this art they desire instructions in methods. These are given in the following directions by State Zoologist H. A. Surface: "For long-stemmed fruits, like apples, a short heavy pair of scissors or regular thinning shears is best. The thinning shears are made like scissors, with short blades and long handles. By their use a person can clip off the stems of fruits without damaging the buds at their bases, or without loosening the other fruits that may be attached at the base of the same cluster. Short stemmed fruits, like peaches, are best thinned by hand, seizing them firmly between the thumb and finger, and giving a twist and a turn toward the outer end of the branch. To pull them in and toward the base of the branch often means to split down the bark and cause injury to the tree at the place the fruits are attached.

In thinning, the rule is first to take off all defective fruits, and next those that are too closely crowded. Fruits on the ends of lower branches that will touch the ground can be removed with advantage, and thus avoid being soiled by dirt washing upon them, and insure strength going into other fruits left on the same branches.

It should be remembered that a sick or unhealthy tree needs to be thinned much more severely than does one that is well and a tree in dry ground or on a hillside needs more severe thinning than one in moist soil. Also during a dry season a tree should be thinned much harder than during a wet season. The point is that fruits will remain small if they do not have moisture enough to fill them, but if by right cultivation, by fertilization or by abundant mulching, and by proper previous winter pruning and spraying a tree is kept vigorous, it can produce a greater amount of fruit than one that has not been given such attention, and hence need not be thinned so severely.

Sometimes one branch of a tree may be unhealthy, as shown by the yellow foliage or stunted fruit. This should be thinned much harder than the healthy branches, and an important rule in horticulture is that the more feeble a tree is the less fruit it should be allowed to bear. This applies likewise to the individual branches in a tree.

In thinning the expert removes first the defective fruits, then those that are smaller than others, and those that are on the outer ends of branches, which would in their development produce a strain that would help break down the tree. Often on the same branch there are seen several fruits, some of which are smaller in size and other larger. Whatever caused some of them to commence to develop as runts will certainly cause them to continue as small fruits, even up until ripening time. For this reason the vitality of the tree is saved and far better fruits are produced by taking off those that commence to show that they will be diminutive in size.

It is impossible to lay down a fixed rule as to the distance apart to leave fruits on a tree, as on a young vigorous tree it will be only one inch or two, and on a large old tree they may be six inches apart. Much comes from experience and after a year of thinning and careful observation of results, one will be in better condition to thin his fruits with intelligent skill another year.

It would be a good plan, for the sake of a test to select fruit trees of the same variety, same age and same size, equally laden with fruit, and thin one very severely and not thin the other at all. When the fruits ripen gather them separately, grade, sort and measure the fruits from the unthinned tree and from the thinned tree separately. Put them on the market, see what prices they will sell for, and keep record of the results.

This year, while fruits are abundant, only the best fruits will sell readily. Culls and poor stuff will be a drug on the market. For the sake of preserving the vitality of the tree, getting rid of culls, insuring ready market, and maintaining the high grade of Pennsylvania fruits, it will pay to thin hard, beginning at once and continuing until the fruit commences to ripen.

High and Low.

Naturally the clergyman was annoyed when the waiter asked if the uncheon party would be high church or low church. "What on earth has that to do with you?" he demanded. "A great deal, sir," explained the waiter; "if your friends are high church I must provide more wine; if low church, more wittles."—Cardiff Western Mail.

Worth Knowing.

The average male brain among civilized races weighs about 49 ounces; in the female about five ounces less. It measures about 105 cubic inches. It consists of 300,000,000 nerve cells, of which 3,000 are disintegrated and destroyed every minute, so that we have a new brain every 60 days. The brains of public and famous men, as well as criminals, weigh about 60 ounces.

Good Help.

A 5 cent lump of smooth or rough pumice stone is a valuable help at the kitchen sink. Use it to remove all sorts of stains from the hands; also to scour off burnt food from granite ware. It will not chip the ware as a knife does, not injure in any way. It also cleans and at the same time sharpens steel knives.

BIG BUSINESS ROOM; CAN'T GET MEN ENOUGH

P. R. R. Orders 1,000 Cars and 81 Engines—Thousands of Additional Men Put to Work in Shops.

Altoona, July 21.—With every department of the Altoona shops, the industrial center of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, working full time and many departments working overtime, this city is enjoying an unsurpassed era of prosperity.

Within the last few days additional orders for engines and cars have been placed with the shops here, and enough work is now on hand to keep all departments working for at least a year.

An order for 81 freight engines, the largest ever used by the Pennsylvania, has been placed with the Juniata shops, while an order has just been placed with the car shops for 1,000 all steel box cars, the most costly equipment of its kind ever ordered by the railroad.

Some months ago there was a slight suspension in the Altoona shops and about 1,200 men were laid off. Within the last ten days practically all of these men have returned to work, while additional mechanics have been employed from other cities.

In fact, the conditions of Altoona have improved to such an extent that contractors who are carrying on large operations about Altoona are experiencing a great shortage in the labor market.

The D. C. Serber Company, engaged in building a large sewage disposal plant and a twin reservoir, has been forced to obtain outside help from the firm's headquarters at Washington, and 400 men still are needed.

To turn out the equipment that has been ordered, the Pennsylvania engineers are rushing plans for the building of a mammoth spring annealing plant, which will be a part of the company's shops in this city. The present spring plant, one of the largest in the world, is inadequate to supply the springs needed. The new plant will cost about $80,000, and work on it will be started within the next month.

So great has become the work in all the departments here that the officials have asked the men to forego their usual shop picnics, as the officers of the company in Philadelphia have asked that the work just ordered be turned out as rapidly as possible.

Modern machines that will increase the output of engines and cars are being installed in the Juniata car shops, and these will require the employment of additional men.

The engineers of the test department of the Pennsylvania Railroad for the last two weeks have been testing out a huge passenger locomotive built in the Juniata shops as a model. So far, the tests have proved the efficiency of the engine, and a high Pennsylvania official stated to-night that it was likely that an order for at least fifty of these engines would be placed with the Juniata shops during the next month.

There is the greatest activity in all business circles in Altoona, due to the era of prosperity in the shops, and leading business men declare that their record of business for 1914 will be ahead of anything done in years.

Sad, Very Sad

Day in, day out he moans and sighs
And shakes his head in doubt;
His sorrow he can not disguise,
The country's down and out.

The workman is on the bum,
It surely is a crime
To make a fellow-being glum—
They work him overtime.

And lo, the humble farmer guy,
His lot is worse by far;
It takes two loads of wheat to buy
A 1915 car.

The railroads are in dire distress;
Ah, brethren, it is tough!
For in dejection they confess
They haven't cars enough.

The bankers, too, are stricken sore;
When harvest time begins,
With one accord they'll raise a roar—
And build more money bias.

Small wonder that this patriot
Should be so heavy-souled;
A pesky Democrat has got
The job he used to hold.

FIRST DOSE ENDS INDIGESTION, HEARTBURN, OR GAS ON STOMACH

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Tonoline Tabs. People with weak stomachs should take Tonoline Tablets occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, gas on stomach or belching of undigested food, headaches, dizziness or sick stomach; and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking Tonoline Tablets.

Go to your druggist and get a $1 box of Tonoline Tablets and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. Tonoline Tabs freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

Tonoline Tablets cost $1.00 for a 50 days' treatment. At druggists or mailed by American Proprietary Co., Boston, Mass.—Adv. 3 July 4t.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 24, 1914.

And Congress painfully lingers on.

"Watchful waiting" has won the day.

Exit Huerta. Enter Wilson watchful waiting policy.

When news is scarce we take a wallup at Rockefeller.

If flirtation is a coeducational institution this town ought to be full of diplomats.

Many a man knows what he would do in the other fellow's place, but he never reaches the place.

London sufs have horsewhipped another public official, and the whip will be saved as a souvenir.

When Huerta decamped he took $6,000,000 with him. The city itself was too heavy to carry.

A baby is a mighty good thing to have, but a twenty-year-old one should be put in the smoke house and cured.

The federal grand jury in Seattle has voted an indictment against the fisheries trust. Let us hope this is not another fish story.

We are waiting to hear from our distinguished citizen who annually has a photo taken of himself and a borrowed string of fish or game.

The Mann - Gallinger - Penrose Gloom Trust would have gone into the hands of a receiver long ago if anyone would take it.

The truth is out at last about the calamity howlers. They want to avoid paying their bills.

The proposed doubling of the Ford auto works is another proof of calamity.—New York World.

Still another proof is the announcement of the plans for double-tracking the Southern Railway from Washington to Atlanta.

The revenue on beer at Philadelphia dropped $68,702.75 in the last year. This is due to the temperance fight. At this rate it will take fifty years to eliminate the traffic.

BUSINESS BETTER

As an instance of the way in which buyers are making their purchases this season, one large clothing house reports that the number of orders received during the last three months are just double those of a similar period last year.—New York Times, July 10.

State Highway Commissioner Edward M. Bigelow has let a contract to build 13 miles of road at an average of $17,000 a mile. Going up. The old average was $14,000 a mile. The cost of living affects the building of roads. Blame it on the tariff and blame the currency law and the anti-trust bills. "Pennsylvania has no ills worthy of mention" except what the Democrats show up and bring up.

CAMPAIGN OF DEFAMATION

Whether it be called a conspiracy or not, there has been a campaign of defamation of the business conditions of the country, conducted solely in the hope of defeating Democratic candidates for Congress and securing a Republican House this fall. It is a disreputable campaign, and a dangerous one. Any merchant's credit is liable to be impaired by the circulation of rumors that he is embarrassed. The effort to convince the country that the state of business is very bad is directly calculated to make it bad, and that is its purpose. The Protectionist propaganda would be glad to see a panic. The last one we had was when they were in full possession of the Government, but their effrontery is equal to charging any dullness of business now on the Democratic party, while denying that they were responsible for the panic of 1907.

The effort of men in Congress and of the distinctively Protectionist organs to collect and repeat and enlarge on every indication of dullness of trade, and to predict worse conditions in the near future, is a wicked and deliberate effort to bring about a

CALAMITY HOWLERS—RIGHT ABOUT FACE.

The bottom has fallen out of the calamity campaign. Confronted by facts and figures, and the optimistic reports coming from all parts of the country, even the orators of the Penrose machine have taken to the timbers and are seeking with all possible zeal to erase the record of their efforts to bring misery and suffering upon the workers of the nation and to create political profits out of commercial disaster.

Within the week so conspicuous a calamity howler as Senator Oliver's Chronicle-Telegraph, of Pittsburgh, has given up the ghost of its calamity campaign and in flaring headlines reports "Good Times Again In Sight For Pittsburgh." In a long article teeming with facts and figures, gathered by enterprising reporters, this paper develops the fact that the business depression as it was pictured was largely a myth, and that even this citadel of steel and iron is rapidly approaching a normal condition and bidding fair to break all records for prosperity within the next season.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, another prophet of evil, has taken the path of reform, and announced on Monday, July 13th, the result of a nation-wide canvass of business conditions. "These reports indicate that the depression in business is not as general as has been supposed, and is confined to certain localities and lines of goods. Indeed, in many sections trade for the last six months has been as good as in the corresponding period of last year. * * * There runs through the entire mass of reports a feeling of confidence in the immediate future. This is not the perfunctory optimism that is easily tapped, but rings true and is supported by conditions cited in the replies. * * * Cotton mills have been somewhat busier this year than last, and the sugar industry shows considerable improvement." (This is the industry that was to have been ruined by the removal of the tariff.)

As if to signalize the complete surrender to the point of view of the Wilson Administration on business conditions, the Ledger on Tuesday, July 14th, in its regular business columns has this to say:

"After all, it is regarded now as a fair conclusion that early enactment of anti-trust laws pending before Congress will do more to establish permanent confidence than their delay. * * * With the present legislation out of the way, and there seems no possibility of the Administration letting up, in its determination to pass the bills at this session, and with the Federal reserve system so soon in operation, there would appear to be no drawback to the renewal of prosperity."

bad state of business in the hope of making some political gain out of it. The banker in Fort Wayne who refused to answer the inquiries of the Protective Tariff League and told the league what he thought of its efforts was a patriotic man who was trying to make business better, while the League is openly trying to make it worse in the hope of changing some votes in November. It might as well save its efforts. A Republican House could not change the tariff.—Philadelphia Record.

READING THE MURDER STORIES

Booth Tarkington, on being interviewed at a New England summer resort, expressed the opinion that the people of that section are devoting an inordinate amount of time to reading about recent murder mysteries. Probably the same could be said of the newspaper readers elsewhere.

Mr. Tarkington felt that it was not time well spent. True, it diverts the public mind from the larger interests of government and social progress.

A persistent reader of murder cases may acquire a certain amateur experience in crime. He becomes familiar with detective methods. It may be said that this gives one experience of human nature. But this information deals largely with morbid types of personality. It is not useful in daily life.

Still, if the newspapers did not print murder stories, people would draw similar tales from the libraries or buy them at bookstalls. The fictional writer about crime is apt to confuse moral judgments.

Yellow newspapers also distort the true significance of crime. If they must thus deal with the dark side of human nature, they should at least tell the truth and strip the gloss from passion. Often they apologize for it or make it alluring.

Inordinate interest in crime is morbid. But these sensational and dramatic crimes often convey a great deal of information as to public morals. They are the sensational results flowing from false standards of life. They reveal unwholesome conditions, that might long pass unnoticed did they not break out in some startling climax. The newspaper that simply tells the plain truth about these tragedies, and lets the facts speak for themselves and point their own moral, performs a service that has value.

THE VALUE OF FRANKNESS

Dispatches from the London stock exchange reported a black week in all American railroad securities. The English men had been reading the Interstate Commerce Commission's report on the New Haven road. They regarded it as a typical picture of American financial methods.

How shall the railroads and other corporations regain public confidence at home and abroad? Here is a question to which business men should apply themselves, regardless whether they feel that the government has or has not been fair and just in its treatment of the roads.

Certain men are born diplomats. They are always playing a game. Their creed is, "What people don't know won't hurt them." They rarely show up their hands.

If railroad managers of that type buy up a lot of competing trolley lines, they give the excuse that the trolleys will be valuable to their business as "feeders." But probably the real reason is that they want a monopoly.

Undue publicity often hurts business enterprises. But the diplomats do not escape publicity by their indirections. They underestimate the sagacity of the people with whom they deal. Their real motives may be apparent. Their plans and purposes are well known, but a doubt is cast over their own sincerity.

For this reason, it is often the finest diplomacy to show up your hand. If the public can guess your hand from your play, it is foolish to try to conceal it.

The railroads have been blamed for many acts that public sentiment did not condemn at the time they were committed. It is only fair to say that the great majority of railroad managers have abandoned dark lantern methods, and have succeeded in winning back much public confidence that was lost. London is wrong if it thinks the New Haven story fairly typifies American finance today.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ## Fine Performing Horses with Robbins Circus

Intelligent animals, especially horses, always attract attention and interest those who watch them perform. With the Frank A. Robbins circus, which comes to Bedford this year on Wednesday, August 5, is the famous Hugh Herzog troupe of eight imported Belgian stallions. These beautiful black animals, under the direction of Prof. Joseph Beris, provide fifteen minutes entertainment during the Robbins show each day, and are without exception the finest specimens of performing animals in the country. They are but one feature of an all feature show, which is declared to be bigger and better than ever this year. The Great Charbino, who slides from the top of the tent to the ground on a slender pole while balanced on his head; the best known men and women bare-back riders in the country today; famous aerialists, acrobats par excellence; the Cevenne troupe of wire walkers, who have just returned from a triumphant tour of South America, and many others will be seen when the show comes here. A splendid band gives concerts before each performance; there is a big street parade in the morning, and with the show is a menagerie doubled in size over that of last year.

Filler-Cline

Clair R. Filler and Miss Edna May Cline of Claysburg were married at the Presbyterian manse on Thursday of last week by Rev. K. A. Bishara. They made the trip here in an automobile and were accompanied by Miss Margaret Harber and Charles Wertz of Altoona as attendants.

PROGRESSING

Suffrage Organizations Being Formed in Nearly All Sections of County.

The active suffrage workers of the county are much gratified by the progress made during the last two months. In that time organizations have been formed and have achieved splendid results in Schellsburg, Fishertown, in East St. Clair Township and Wolfburg, in Bedford Township.

The meetings of the Schellsburg organization, held in the L. T. L. rooms, have been well attended and proven extremely interesting and helpful. The Wolfburg women recently held a suffrage fete, clearing ten dollars, the first money to be contributed to the county treasury. The Fishertown organization will hold an open-air meeting on the evening of the 25th which will be addressed by the Rev. George Neeld, pastor of the Meyersdale M. E. Church. Ice cream and cake will be sold. Mr. Neeld is a very effective speaker. He addressed a mass meeting in Hyndman in June where he made a most favorable impression.

The work done by Miss Carolyn Wagner in Hyndman has been noteworthy. In the first week after undertaking the borough leadership Miss Wagner secured 110 party pledges.

In addition to these places where final organization has been accomplished work has been done in Napier, Harrison, Londonderry, Snake Spring and West Providence Townships and in Everett and Mann's Choice Boroughs. We are much indebted to Mrs. Sparks, the head of the suffrage department of the W. C. T. U. Committee.

The Message of the Trees

Summer time is here, and the woods are alluring. From the trees of the woods the pastor of the Bedford Methodist Church has gathered a gospel message which he believes will be helpful. This message will be given upon next Sabbath in parts one and two at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The trees will be given a voice, and all members and friends of the church, and strangers in town, are cordially invited to come and hear what things the trees have to say.

Purchased a Bell

The Church of God at Coalmont recently purchased a bell from the church at Landisville. In 1884 Rev. F. L. Nicedemus was pastor of the Churches at Saxton and Coalmont. A new building was built at Saxton on which a McShane bell was placed having on the name of the pastor. This bell still swings on that church building. Four years later Rev. Nicedemus built a chapel at Landisville, Lancaster County, on which a McShane bell, having his name inscribed, was placed. Last year a building costing $20,000 took the place of the old, and a new and larger bell was placed in the tower. The bell having on Rev. Nicedemus' name was sold to Coalmont. It weighs 470 pounds—778 with fixtures. The church at Coalmont has a bell for sale which was formerly used by both churches in that place.

WHO IS THIS MAN VANCE M'CORMICK?

By J. Horace McFarland, President American Civic Association.

PART I.

(Part II. Will Appear Next Week.)

This question has been asked me frequently. In most similar cases the person at interest would answer himself, but it is a part of Mr. McCormick's singular modesty, amounting at times to almost shyness, that he seems himself to be uninterested as to who he is.

Vance McCormick is a young man, as men in public life go. He has passed all his life in Harrisburg, except for the college years at Yale, during which I presume he studied creditably, but during which I know he acquired fame for himself and for Yale on the football field. I mention this because it has a most interesting and important relation to the things he did after he left the gridiron.

He is part of an old, influential and wealthy family, ramifications of which touch Chicago. I never did understand Mr. McCormick very well until I came to know his mother. Then I came into some comprehension as to how a young man of wealth and social opportunity could be so little interested in the flutterings of fashion and so earnestly and vigorously a part of the life of his town that has to do with making it a better place in which to live.

A little more than a dozen years ago Harrisburg began to feel the stirrings of a city decency that had previously been a stranger in it, or, indeed, in any other Pennsylvania town. There came a movement to do things for Harrisburg. We were drinking—that is, those of us who could afford to buy filters were drinking—water of such filthiness that an accurate description of it would be unprintable under the postal laws. The sewers of the town fitted the water that went into them; the river front fitted the sewers.

The parks in those days were trifling in extent and useless in management. In fact, their extent was relatively inconsiderable, being only a trifle more than 40 acres, and their management was practically non-existent.

There were but two paved streets in the town, and the paving was very carefully preserved from use or damage by traffic under a coating of filth, mud and manure, removed several times a year to assure that the asphalt was still there.

Mr. McCormick was one of the first to take interest in the movement to secure expert advice as to what was best to do in this unpleasant situation. He contributed money, but he did a great deal more than that. He contributed time and personality. The reports of the experts, obtained in due time, meant that the town had to be politically regenerated, in order that anything should be done for the people who really paid the bills of mismanagement and inefficiency. Public order in Harrisburg at that time was in the same class as to possible description as the water and the sewers I have above alluded to.

Mr. McCormick participated in the plans for educating the people of the town to the necessity not only of voting money to buy filtration, sewers, parks, playgrounds and paving, but to use intelligence, knowledge and interest in the conduct of the city.

To make sure that things should go right, he consented, with great reluctance, as I happen to know, to be the candidate for mayor. In order not to embarrass the success of the municipal loan campaign, he withdrew from the executive committee handling that campaign, but there was not a man, woman or child in Harrisburg that did not know that his success, and the success of the loan campaign, and the introduction of public decency and public efficiency were all in one movement.

Mr. McCormick was elected. The improvement campaign was won. The majorities for both were about the same, as they were also for the practically non-partisan officials who took office with Mr. McCormick. Men had been elected regardless of party labels.

Mr. McCormick took up with courage the nasty job of cleaning up the morals of the dirty city. He established the innovation of inviting people to come to the mayor's office and talk over with him the best men for places at his command. There were no gum-shoe interviews, and most of the men he appointed were too good for the jobs, as ordinarily construed, and had to be coaxed to take them in order to serve the city.

ST. PAUL DEPOSITS HEAVY

Five National and Two Other Banks Hold $60,162,193.48.

St. Paul, July 20.—Deposits in St. Paul's five national banks and the Scandinavian American and People's banks on June 30 aggregate $60,162,193.48. This in spite of the fact that deposits at this season of the year are usually at low ebb.

The assets of these banks amounted to $73,182,573.74.

Never before in the history of St. Paul have the bank deposits touched $60,000,000, and the assets have never before been within $5,000,000 of the record established on June 30.

The sworn statements as to condition in answer to the call of the United States Comptroller of Currency and the State Superintendent of Banks show the aforementioned total.

The Army Worm in Pennsylvania

Within the last few days hundreds of specimens of the larva or so called "worm" of dark or striped color have been taken to the office of the State Zoologist at Harrisburg. Anxious persons by the score have called by telephone or letter for information on the means of suppressing the pest that has suddenly invaded their premises and eaten away their grass and other vegetation. Upon examination of these specimens State Zoologist H. A. Surface, found them to be the Army worm, and has discussed their habits and described briefly destruction in the following words:

The Army worm is a kind of Cut worm which is present every year, but does not commonly appear in such numbers. When there are comparatively few specimens present they obtain plenty of vegetation for their food and, consequently, do not crowd each other to the starvation point, and do not "march" forth as an army. It is only when they are very numerous and find insufficient vegetation for them to live in one spot that they travel, and at that time are given the common name by which they are known.

The pests feed voraciously and continue to grow until they are over one inch in length, when they become quiet and change to chrysalids, and later into the soft gray moths, often seen flying around lights in the evening. The Army worm moth is known by the white point in the middle of its forewing.

While the larvae are feeding voraciously they are easily destroyed. The main question each person has asked after the first inquiry of "What is it," is how to destroy them. When marching toward cultivated crops they have been kept back by plowing a furrow with the vertical side from them, so they cannot climb it, easily, and then dragging a log behind a horse ridden by a boy. Of course, such measures are entirely impractical on lawns. Fortunately, here it is easy to resort to arsenical poisons and thus end them. They can be killed either by dusting or spraying with an arsenical poison, without injuring the grass, and without danger to the resident of the property.

A good method is to mix one part of arsenate of lead or Paris green with about thirty parts of any kind of powder, such as slaked lime, ashes, road dust, or even flour, and dust it very lightly over the infested lawn. It requires only a very light dusting to get ahead of the pest.

Another method is to sprinkle or spray them with an arsenical material in water. One-half ounce of arsenate of lead or Paris green, in one gallon of water, applied as a spray will effectively settle them. It is sometimes even sufficient to sprinkle it quickly over the lawn with a sprinkling can, although the material applied as a spray sticks better on the vegetation and is more efficient as a poison than when the same strength of material is applied from a sprinkling can, even though much more may be used with the latter. Whatever one has been using as a means of destroying Cabbage worms can be used with advantage for destroying the Army worms.

Triumphal Arch Dedicated

The arch of triumph for which Congress appropriated $100,000 in 1910 has been built and dedicated to the American soldiers who endured such terrible privations while in winter quarters at Valley Forge in 1777-78. A handsome page view of the arch appears in the August Popular Mechanics Magazine. In 1893 the State of Pennsylvania bought 475 acres of land covering the site of the camp and formed it into "Valley Forge Park."

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union)

"RESPECTABLE" SALOONS.

A city paper calls attention to the "boulevard saloon." The boulevards, it asserts, should be kept free from anything so detrimental to the morals of the men, women and children who every summer evening come from the more crowded residence districts to enjoy the purer air and pleasanter sights of these great thoroughfares. "No matter," it says, "how gilded a place may be where liquor is sold, no matter how quiet, apparently, it is an unfit place for a boulevard." And where, may we ask, if the saloon is to be made "respectable," is it fitter than in respectable localities? If the saloon is an evil, if it is a place where "young men and women lose their lives and honor," as this same article says, why should it be foisted upon the poorer districts—upon the people who daily walk to and from office or store, or who take their evening recreation at the theaters or public halls? The saloon is a "fit place" for no one, therefore a fit place nowhere.

PATRIOTIC REASONS.

Experiments in the Swiss army have shown that abstainers are the best shots in target practice, and the British army experiments in marching have shown that regiments drinking only water outmarch, in the long run, those that have rations of beer or whisky.

The German emperor's word will bear much repeating: "The nation which takes the smallest amount of alcohol will win the battles of the future." And the crown prince of Sweden, in 1911, showing that in the industrial contest of nations also, the world's markets belong to the soberest nation said: "That nation which is first to free itself from the injurious effects of alcohol will thereby attain a market advantage over other nations in the amicable yet intensive struggle for existence."

OUT OF A JOB.

The cry is sometimes made that if saloons are voted out, saloonkeepers will lose their jobs, and their families will suffer. Did it ever occur to you that if the saloons are not voted out, hundreds of the patrons of the saloons will lose their jobs and their families will suffer?

If there are 30 bar rooms in a city, with two barkeepers each, would any one say that these 30 bar rooms will not put out of a job during the year more than 60 men? Out of the men who patronize these 30 bar rooms, hundreds will be discharged from stores, shops, offices, railroads and other businesses. Isn't it better that we should put 30 barkeepers out of a job than that these 60 men by their business should put many times as many men out of a job?

WHICH SHALL LIVE?

The liquor traffic is changing this "land of the free and home of the brave," into "the land of the spree and the home of the knave." I believe that if this nation lives, the saloon must die. We are not called upon today to shoulder a gun and go forth to war to suffer the terrible privations of a soldier's life; to, perhaps, bleed or die that our country may be victorious. All that we are called upon to do is to go to the polls and cast a ballot that will save our nation. Every man who loves his country should cast the vote that will crush the saloon, the worst enemy of America.—John F. Cunneen (labor leader).

MISAPPLIED TERMS.

Modern medical science has demonstrated that there is no such thing as the habitual or even occasional use of alcoholic beverages in so-called "temperate" or "moderate" quantities that is within the zone of safety. Science has demonstrated that there is no reasonable amount that can be taken habitually at longer or shorter intervals that will not be either functionally or organically harmful.—L. D. Mason, M. D.

TOTAL ABSTAINERS FAVORED.

The Virginia Pharmaceutical association at its annual convention went on record as favoring state-wide total abstinence. The resolution touching state-wide legislation and an enabling act carried with it the decision of the pharmacists not to ask any special favors of the legislature regarding the sale of alcohol in the event Virginia becomes a dry state.

HARM FROM ALCOHOL.

Other things being equal, the less alcoholic liquors are resorted to the better the chances for the patient's recovery. Alcohol does not nourish, but pulls down; does not stimulate, but depresses; does not strengthen, but excites and exhausts.—Dr. Norman Kerr, England President of the Society for the Study of Inebriety.

WINELESS AND BEERLESS.

The annual dinner given by Typographical Union No. 14 of Harrisburg, Pa., in celebration of Benjamin Franklin's birthday, was wineless and beerless. Its success was so marked that, it is said, all future dinners and entertainments given by the union will be free from intoxicating liquors.

CORKSCREW LOSES ITS PULL.

Ex-Congressman Landis of Indiana sums up the whole temperance situation when he says: "The corkscrew hasn't got the pull it used to have."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

LESSON FOR JULY 26

THE POUNDS AND THE TALENTS. LESSON TEXT—Luke 19:11-27, cf. Matt. 25:14-30.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Well done, good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter into the joy of thy lord." Matt. 25:21 R. V.

We are told plainly why Jesus spoke the first parable (v. 11). We must beware of confusing these two parables though they are one in their essential teachings.

The parable of the pounds was uttered before the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem while that of the talents was spoken subsequently. This association does not mean identity for each has a separate lesson. Both have to do with an absent lord whose return was imminent. The Jews looked for a temporal visible kingdom and many were associating the earthly life of our Lord with that expected manifestation. Hence this parable as recorded by Luke.

Issue is Fidelity.

I. "Occupy Till I Come," vv. 11-14. Both of these parables have to do with the return of an absent lord who will then establish his kingdom. In view of this return and consummation, his servants are to give their undivided attention to their immediate responsibilities. They are to trade, to do business with that that has been entrusted to them. They are to actively discharge their duty. Ere the visible kingdom is established, Jesus told these Jews, there must be a period of preparation. Jesus, himself, is the "nobleman" whose ascension into heaven where he is to receive a kingdom fulfills the "departure" into a far country. He will return to set up that kingdom, Acts 1:9-11, with "all authority," Matt. 28:18 R. V., Eph. 1:18-23; 1 Pet. 3:22. He may return at any time. In neither parable is there a full description of the kingdom as it is to be established, for both have to do with the servants. The issue is that of fidelity in each case.

The "citizens" (v. 14) include his proper subjects the Jews, John 1:11; Acts 4:27-28, and in this connection we recall their cry, "Away with him, crucify him," Luke 23:8; John 19:15. These "citizens," also include all of his professed followers but not necessarily regenerated men, Matt. 7:22-23. The king gives to each servant (v. 13) a pound (about $18.00). His deposit is equal in each case. In the parable of the talents there is a difference in the amounts bestowed. This last emphasizes the fact that each is to be held responsible according to the measure of his own personal ability. Putting these two together we see that all the servants of the king are responsible for the one pound which is a symbol of the common fact of the kingdom power. At the same time the servant is also responsible for that common power according to the measure in which it is entrusted to him, in which he is able to deal with it. The small amount of one pound indicates our responsibility for the smallest gifts.

Parable of Pounds.

II. "When He Was Returned," vv. 15-30. The parable of the pounds was spoken to those who thought he must at once establish his kingdom of God. That of the talents was given in answer to the disciples' inquiry as to when certain things which he had foretold would take place. Upon his return all these servants will be summoned before him, Matt. 25:18, Rom. 14:10-12, 1 Cor. 15:10. As Jesus stood there, he, likewise of that as of all other ages, saw ahead of him Jerusalem with its scourging, suffering and death. He also saw beyond that his resurrection and departure to receive a kingdom (v. 12), a period therefore in this world during which his servants shall be responsible for the care of his interests, a time during which they shall occupy, do business with what he has entrusted them of the kingdom authority and power. All of this will culminate in his return when he will deal with those to whom this responsibility has been given, and then establish finally his kingdom. In the parable Jesus deals with each servant separately, and emphasizes the fact of stewardship. The pound belonged to the king. For his faithfulness the first servant received, v. 17, (a) the king's commendation and (b) authority over ten cities. Later, (v. 24) he also received another pound. The second did not give quite so good a report and his reward, though he is placed over "five cities," his reward was in proportion to his faithfulness.

The third report was bad. It reveals neglect, laziness, and a wrong conception regarding the king. He sought to excuse his sloth by blaming another. The excuses of the sinner always condemn himself, not God, and augment the sinner's guilt. The "wicked servant" lost what he would not use. If we will not use we must lose. Doubtless this servant considered himself unfortunate, though he was judged "out of his own mouth." Reverting again to those citizens who hated him and would not have the king to "reign over them," Jesus closes his parable (v. 27).

BIG JUMP IN STEEL TRADE

The Iron Age Shows Orders for June Best of the Year.

New York, July 20.—According to Iron Age, the great industrial publication, the steel trade has been given a great impetus recently as the result of many orders. Iron Age says:

"The corner seems to have been turned at last and manufacturers are now confident that the remainder of the year will show a much larger volume of business than the first half."

"The United States Steel Corporation reports its bookings of new orders in June larger than in any previous month this year. Reports made to the main office by presidents of subsidiary companies of the corporation are all of a most encouraging character, not only as to conditions in the closing week of June, but also with regard to the opening days of July."

The Iron Age points out as significant of better buying and larger output the decision of numerous companies to shorten their mid-year shut-down for inventories and making repairs. It had been expected that a great majority of the mills, both of the independent concerns and the Steel Corporation, would be closed down for at least two weeks. Instead they have resumed operations after a week of idleness because of the demands of customers for continued deliveries on contracts.

"It is believed that nearly all of the large agricultural implement manufacturers have placed contracts for steel bars," the Iron Age continues, "for at least the coming six months."

"Not only is the demand for finished steel products better, but indications are seen of strengthening in price. Few manufacturers are willing to book long contracts at present figures, and intimations are being made of some advance."

The Pity Of It!

Business can create psychological conditions to suit itself or to browbeat an administration it would ruin if it cannot rule. It cannot control material conditions to suit any such purpose.

If there has been a conspiracy to this effect, the big crops are blowing it up and the railroads are hiring back the men they were recently discharging wholesale. The calamity howlers are being swept off their feet. The standpatters are running about with the cry of what can be done to save their exclusive contract with Providence through high tariff in the production of prosperity. And lastly, the Colonel is seen hunting around for that "grave industrial depression and suffering," which he left the Outlook to save the country from.

It is a great pity, in the midst of these glowing promises for the industry of the many, to have to record the havoc wrought to the elect and those who battle for the Lord. But facts are facts.—New York World.

ERA OF NATIONAL PROSPERITY

Hugh Chalmers, the Great Automobile Manufacturer, an Optimist.

Pittsburgh, July 21.—Business optimism, breathed both by Hugh Chalmers of Detroit, president of the Chalmers Motor Company, and Edward J. Catell, city statistician of Philadelphia, worked the 1,500 delegates to the seventh annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, in session here, into a frenzy of cheering recently, at the Hotel Schenley.

Mr. Catell, speaking first, said: "Within 18 months, I predict, this country will enter upon the greatest era of prosperity it has ever known."

He received an ovation continuing a full minute, in which delegates, standing on the chairs, cheered and waved their hats.

Mr. Chalmers, following a few minutes later, said: "Like Mr. Catell, I am an optimist on the business outlook."

Much Money for Tips.

A painstaking statistician has estimated that tips of one kind and another paid daily in Paris to waiters, janitors, cabmen, and the thousand and one others whose income is largely derived from this source amount to $2,320 a day. The grand total of all the tips given in France is placed at $12,384,000 a year.

Fair Measure of Industrial Activity

Washington, D. C., July 21.—The Nation's output of mineral products of various kinds is a fair measure of industrial activity. For several months now the Department of the Interior, through the Geological Survey, has been issuing its final statistics of the 1913 mineral production which confirms in detail the preliminary estimates issued early in January for the principal minerals. In the large majority of cases these authoritative figures tell in one way or another the same story of industrial prosperity. In coal production the increase has been general, and it is this very fact that serves as an unmistakable index of general health in the industrial world. But as State after State is shown to have had its banner coal year—West Virginia, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky, Alabama, Virginia, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Montana, Texas, Utah, and Pennsylvania in both bituminous and anthracite, the record becomes spectacular. Ohio for instance had its floods, yet there was a substantial 6 per cent. increase in coal output, and the miners averaged more working days in 1913 than in 1912. Twelve other States showed increases varying from 3 per cent. in Iowa to 12 per cent. in Indiana and over 15 per cent. in Washington, and only Colorado, Maryland, North Dakota, Nevada, Idaho, and Missouri show decreased output, the Colorado labor troubles explaining the only significant decrease. In a similar way, the figures of coke production give large increases, and coke, it may be noted, is a step nearer the metal industry. Petroleum production in 1913 exceeded all records, an increase of 25 million barrels and 72 million dollars over the 1912 returns.

In metal mining, the iron and zinc mines had a banner year, while gold, silver, lead and copper showed a decline in many of the largest producing States. Structural materials on the other hand exhibited marked gains almost without exception. Thus 1913 was the banner year for cement, which gains more than 11 per cent. over 1912, and record outputs are also shown for lime, building sand and gravel, sand-lime brick, and glass sand. Other mineral products for which 1913 was a record-breaking year, are bauxite and aluminum, sulphuric acid, feldspar, mica, pottery, and talc and soapstone, while substantial increases are reported for gypsum, phosphate rock, abrasives, barytes, slate, and salt. These production figures all express well-maintained activity in mines, smelter, furnace, and mill and prove that the American people are utilizing more of the Nation's great natural resources than ever before. A few weeks later when figures are at hand for all of the mineral products, it is expected that 1913 will be found to have outtopped both 1912 and 1907 which have hitherto held the record.

Wilson's Triumph in Mexico

The President's Mexican policy, concerning which there have been many misgivings, has triumphed. The Dictator has resigned. A constitutional government is to be established. There will eventually be peace at home and peace with the United States.

When General Huerta on the 18th of February, 1913, telegraphed to President Taft, "I have overthrown this Government and the forces are with me," he had no thought of the man who in two weeks was to be President of the United States, or of the forces that that man would array against the Mexican usurpation.

One week after Mr. Wilson's inauguration he gave due warning to General Huerta and all other Latin-American chieftains who gain office by intrigue and assassination when he said: "We can have no sympathy with those who seize power of government to advance their own personal interests and ambitions." Huerta laughed at this avowal, and not a few citizens of the United States pronounced it visionary and fantastic.

Yet the new American doctrine that usurpation is not to be recognized on this hemisphere has been established in the one country where its success seemed most doubtful. Against Huerta's airy assumption Wilson arrayed adamantine conscience. In opposition to the tyrant's armed forces Wilson marshaled the forces of liberty and justice.

It has taken some hard fighting in Mexico to overthrow the man who overthrew the Government, but moral courage of a higher order has been needed to enable the administration at Washington to hold true to its principles. The triumph is ours as well as Mexico's. The honor of victories won in the realm of morals is no less than that of battles gained on bloody fields.

Thanks to Woodrow Wilson, a great country and an oppressed people are upon the threshold of a new epoch.—New York World

FARM POULTRY

POULTRY FOR AVERAGE FARM

Where Both Eggs and Market Chickens Are Wanted One of General Purpose Breeds is Best.

The farm fowls in many cases raise their own young, and this eliminates the egg breeds such as Leghorns or Minorcas, which do not as a rule, become broody. If, however, incubators are used and eggs are the principal product wanted, especially if there is a preference for white-shelled eggs, these varieties will give good satisfaction. For the average farm, where both eggs and market chickens are wanted, one of the general purpose breeds will probably give the best results. In this class we have the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons. Good stock of these varieties will be found to be good egg producers as well as making fine table poultry.

The town or small lot poultryman wants fowls that can be kept in small quarters and stand confinement well. The Leghorns, being light, active birds, are hard to keep in small yards, and high fences are necessary. On account of their active, nervous disposition they do not do as well under these conditions as where they have abundant range and the benefit derived from their good foraging qualities is lost.

SHELL-FORMING MATERIALS

Crushed Oyster Shells, Bone Dust and Mortar Rubble Will Prevent Soft-Shell Eggs.

Soft-shelled eggs frequently appear among fowls in full lay at this season of the year, especially if the birds are deprived of shell-forming material. Eggs are often produced at too rapid a rate to be completely coated with lime substance.

Soft-shelled eggs, if dropped from the nests and broken, are liable to produce the egg-eating habit among the flock. Poultry keepers should, therefore, see that the fowls are well supplied with shell-forming materials such as crushed oyster shells, bone dust or old mortar rubble.

Should a fowl produce two eggs a day and one of them is shell-less, one may conclude that the bird is overstimulated and its dietary should be altered to one of a less forcing nature.

Spices used in mild seasons are liable to have an over-stimulating effect upon the ovary and at the same time debilitate the oviduct with the result that the latter organ fails to perform its shell-producing functions.

If fowls were more rationally treated to a nourishing rather than a stimulating dietary and supplied with shell-forming materials soft-shelled eggs would not appear so often.

CLEANLINESS IN HEN YARDS

Neglect of Drinking Dishes and Feeding Troughs May Cause Much Loss During the Summer.

(By PROF. J. G. HALPIN, Wisconsin Experiment Station)

Drinking dishes and feeding troughs for chickens are likely to become dirty and insanitary unless special precautions are taken.

Drinking water should never be placed in common dishes or vessels where the chicks may get in with both feet, but "sanitary" fountains, either home-made or purchased, should be used. These should be cleaned and scalded at frequent intervals. Wet mash, when fed in wooden troughs, mold unless all refuse is scraped off and the troughs are placed on end so that they may dry in the sun.

Neglect of these two simple matters may cause considerable loss during the summer.

Raising Guinea Fowls.

The raising of guinea fowls is being advocated by the agricultural department and dealers in market poultry. The demand for them is said to be good already, and increasing as rapidly as epicures become acquainted with the delights of the dish.

Spading the Yard.

Spading the yard is more important in summer than in winter. Spade up the yard and scatter lime over the surface of the ground. Lime prevents gapes, roup and cholera, and also serves as a disinfectant.

The Walnut Grove Campmeeting will be held August 14-23. We kindly ask the public to remember the following: The campground this year will be divided into three parts, the first will be the hitching ground for the tenters; the second for automobiles and the third for the public to hitch. Tenters will drive in at same place as other years and hitch down along board fence. Only room is reserved here for them and the public will go up above all the buildings and there they will find hitching room. Automobiles will also go over the same road and enter back of restaurant same as last year. At home you do not hitch horses to shade trees not to the kitchen porch--you should not do so at camp. Horses bring filth and flies and we have asked the public to hitch away from tents only because it is useful. On Sunday dinner will be served at 11 a. m. and from that till 11:40 the room will be open to all who desire their meals. At 12:15 regular boarders will dine and those not availing themselves of the earlier meal will be served at 12:30. Order is needed at camp for there a little noise disturbs many. A bell rings at 10:15, 11:15 Saturday night, at the ringing of which all are requested to leave the ground except tenters and lodgers. Fifteen minutes afterwards another bell rings at which time all are supposed to be where they expect to remain all night. Lodging can be secured from the General Manager. Neither intoxicated persons nor intoxicants are allowed on the ground. A reward of $25 is offered for the conviction of any person for selling intoxicants within a mile of camp. A campmeeting is for religious purposes and only those who come to abide under the rules and to act in harmony with the import of the meeting will be provided with accommodation. We thank the public for their kindness in the past and ask for their co-operation and help in this camp.

F. W. McGuire, General Mgr., Saxton, Pa.
